PROJECTS

Build Week-- Java Back End Developer(one of two)
Sept. 2019 to Current

I was one of two back end developers working on developing a fully functioning Java back end for the project. I fleshed out most of the project the weekend prior to starting the project to give our front end developers working endpoints and swagger documentation to achieve what they needed to pass our build week. This was a week long endeavor that took me roughly 4 days to fully have available for usage.

Build Week-- Senior Front End Developer (one of three)
Aug. 2019 to Current

I was one of three senior front end developers working on state management through the use of redux. My responsibilities included assisting with making the decision on what state management system to implement, assisting the junior react developers with debugging, and laying out components needed for the project to have some organization.

Build Week-- User Interface Developer
June 2019 to Current

I was one of three User Interface team members for the project. We each made our own versions of the marking page, about page, as well as the gallery.

Build Week-- Front End Developer
July 2019 to Current

I was one of three junior front end developers working on this particular project. My responsibilities included building the structure, functionality, and styling to the login page, user profile, toggle, and the interval section.
